MANY ATTENDED THE MEETINGS

Local Option Movement Given Good Send Off in Towanda Wednesday.

LOCAL OPTIONISTS' BEST ATTENDED MEETINGS

Rev. C. H. Brandt Greatly Pleased With Attendance and Interest Shown in the Movement in This County. Committee Named.

That the Local Option movement in Bradford county is to be a big one during the next year was indicated by the large attendance at the meetings in the court house Wednesday afternoon and evening. The night attendance was the largest ever present at a meeting arranged by the Local Optionists in Towanda.

Heretofore a handful of people would attend and after hearing the subject discussed from various viewpoints would go their way leaving it all to the "other fellow." Not so at Wednesday's meetings. The atendance was surprising to those who have long had local option close to their hearts. People expressed themselves favorable to the cause and also pledged their support to candidates who would in turn pledge themselves to Local Option. This is indeed encouraging to those back of the movement not only in Bradford county, but throughout Pennsylvania.

Afternoon Meeting.

The afternoon meeting was held in the court room, and was presided over by F. L. Eastabrook of Athens, one of the most enthusiastic temperance men in the county. He made a short address appropriate to the meeting.

Other addresses were made by Hon. George Moscrip, Bradford county's senior representative in the last legislature, Hon. F. N. Moore, county treasurer, and Rev. C. H. Brandt of Wilkes-Barre, superintendent of the Northeastern District of the Pennsylvania AntiSaloon League. Rev. Brandt's address was an outline of the work which the Anti-Saloon League desires done int his county.

This is to select a committee to organize the county for the Local Option campaign of 1910 when members of the legislature will be elected. The executive committee shall appoint subcommittees in every election precinct in the county, to work for the cause early and late.

The following committee which shall have the power to select the sub-committees was chosen: S. H. Smith, Esq. and O. L. Smiley of Towanda, Dr. O. H. Rockwell of Monroeton, A. T. Lilley of LeRoy, Rev. F. J. Niles of Rome, Hon. F. N. Moore of North Orwell, and F. L. Eastabrook of Athens.

This committee will go to work at once, and it is the intention to make things hum during the next twelve months.

Evening Meeting.

The meeting last evening was very largely attended, more people being present than has ever before gathered at a local option meeting in Towanda. Rev. Brandt and the others who are engaged in the movement, were greatly pleased with the attendance which indicates a lively interest in the cause.

Rev. D. D. Campbell, D. D., pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church opened the meeting with prayer. Rev. Mr. Brandt was the principal speaker of the evening, taking for his subject the workings of the Brooks High License Law. He said that if this law was rigidly enforced Pennsylvania would be practically as dry as any of the local option or prohibition states, but as it was almost impossible to enforce it to the letter, it was a failure as a temperance measure which it was intended for when placed upon the statutes of the commonwealth.

Local option is simply the American principle of majority rule applied to the liquor traffic. "People have a right to vote whether or not a saloon shall exist in their town, township, or city," is one of Mr. Brand's forcible arguments.

Following Mr. Brandt, short talks were made by Rev. P. I. Frey, pastor of the First Baptist church, and Hon. F. N. Moore. The meeting was closed following a prayer by Rev. John S. Stewart, D. D., pastor of the Presbyterian church.

After the meeting, Rev. Mr. Brandt, who represented the Anti-Saloon League at the meetings, expressed himself as being very well satisfied, and particularly pleased with the temperance outlook for Bradford county.

TOWANDA BOY'S BIG FALL; ESCAPED SERIOUS INJURY.

Frank Boland Dropped Nearly Sixty Feet Into River at Binghamton.

Says Monday Binghamton Republican: Frank Boland, aged 23 years, of Towanda, fell from the Erie railroad bridge across the Chenango river shortly after midnight Sunday morning into the Chenango river, nearly 60 feet below. The water at this point is but four feet deep and how Boland managed to escape death or serious injury is a mystery.

"His cries for help were heard at Jacob Scheffer's residence on McDonald avenue and police headquarters were notified. Police Captain Shay and several others succeeded in getting a boat and rescuing Boland. He claimed to have been walking across the bridge and had just left the Front street side.

"Boland aparently escaped without any injuries whatever, being able to walk up the steep bank and about the city without any difficulty."

STIFF SENTENCE FOR POLLUTING TROUT STREAM.

David Hickernell of Noxen, Fined $100 and Costs By Justice Piatt.

David Hickernell of Noxen, Wyoming County, a foreman in charge of one of the sawmills operated and owned by the Trexler & Tyrrell Lumber Company, had a hearing before Justice of the Peace Frank Piatt at Tunkhannock on Monday of this week and was found guilty of allowing saw-dust to run into South Branch a tributary of Bowman's Creek, a brook trout stream. A penalty of $100 and costs was imposed. W. E. Shoemaker, State Fish Warden was the prosecutor.

The department of fisheries is getting tired of repeating warnings to people who are polluting the streams with matter that is known to be destructive to fish and fish food. Other prosecutions are to follow.

HORSE KICKS AND KILLS MAN WHO WHIPPED IT.

Bradford County Farmer's Life Ended by Blow Over the Heart.

Frank Churchill met almost instant death from a horse's kick near Rock Stream shortly after 1 o'clock Friday afternoon, says the Canton World.

The young man was employed by Darwin Thompson of Canton as teamster and had gone to the farm of Emmitt Loot, six miles north of Canton to haul logs to the Smith basket factory. The horses were unhitched at noon and allowed to run loose. When the young man went for his team they ran away from their feed. Young Churchill cut a switch and when he secured the horses used the whip on them as a warning for better conduct. It is thought when he hooked the team to the wagon and was stooping over, one of the horses kicked him in the chest nearly over the heart. He was dead when found by other laborers.

Met a Big Lizard.

H. L. Holcombe, the china dealer, while en route to his store early Monday morning found his path blocked by a monster lizard, which he estimates to have been about eight inches in length. The reptile was spotted in a peculiar fashion which in the dim light of the early morning made it appear ghastly. To the zoologist, this specie of lizard is known as the Canyuncatuncwobbleskimunc, or the kind which inhabits the tomb of the dead, made horrible in stories written by the old time authors. Mr. Holcombe, who makes a specialty of amateur photography, hurried to the store for his camera, but could not find the reptile upon his return.

"Dassent" Tell.

The other day The Review contained an item to the effect that one of the county officials was about to lead a fair lady to the altar. Now there are four county officials who are elgible and likely, namely, County Commissioners Griffin and Marsh, Court Stenographer J. G. Pratt and Coroner Dr. T. Ben Johnson, Jr. Any one of these gentlemen would make some deserving female a good and inoffensive husband, and since the publishing of the above mentioned item a great many people have been asking: "Which one?" The unmarried officials have received all kinds of communications, from congratulations to condolences, and each one is pointing a finger at the other fellow while saying: "He's the man." The Review has been asked by all four of the officials to name the party, but the fact of the matter is while The Review knows, The Review "dassent" tell.

BRADFORD COUNTY IS GETTING GOOD

But Twelve Cases Were Before Grand Jury Which Completed Labors Tuesday.

NINE TRUE AND THREE NOT TRUE BILLS RETURNED

Jurors Were in Session Less Than Two Days—Two County Bridges Recommended—Findings of the Jury.

Bradford county, the land of buckwheat, good butter, and big potatoes, now has another distinction and that is it is one of the best counties in the state when considered from a moral point of view. Time is not far in the past when this county had enough criminal work every three months to keep a grand jury busy anywhere from three to six days in making investigations, but not so now. Gradually the number of crimes have decreased until this week when the grand jury met for the December term, only twelve cases were to be considered, and this out of a population of about 50,000. Improved laws and wise justices have helped in lowering the criminal list, and it seems possible within a couple of years, perhaps before, that the grand jury will not have any criminal cases to inquire into. Stranger things nave happened.

Reports of the Grand Jury.

The grand jury completed it's labors on Tuesday afternoon, after having been in session less than two days, having convened late Monday forenoon. Following is the report submitted:

To the Hon. A. C. Fanning, President Judge of the Court of Quarter Sessions of Bradford County: The Grand Jury of Bradford County respectfully report: That 12 indictments have been laid before them and they have found nine true bills and 3 not true bills. The grand jury feel that the County of Bradford has cause for congratulations on account of the falling off of criminal litigation in the county, and are satisfied that our justices of the peace are using more care in disposing of minor cases.

That they have inspected the county jail and court house and find same in good repair and condition. They suggest that a better method of ventilating the jail be adopted.

They thank the Court for the considerate treatment they have received while in the discharge of their duties. John C. Mather, foreman.

True Bills.

Following are the true bills returned by the grand jury:

Harry Coppe, larceny.

James McCracken, larceny.

Angelo Riato, aggravated assault and battery.

Victor Rayetta, assault and battery.

Reuben Heeman and Theodore W. Robinson, breaking and entering cars, and larceny.

Allen Miller, selling and exposing for sale watered milk.

Harry Priest. Eugene Perry, Bennett Reynolds, and Millard Nash, forcible entry, assault and battery and pointing a firearm.

George Mines, assault and battery with intent to commit rape.

Not True Bills.

Frank Ronk, assault and battery.

Dan A. Donovan, larceny by bailee and larceny.

Percy Harding, burglary and larceny.

County Bridges Recommended.

In the matter of County bridges, the grand jury recommended that one be built over Wappasening creek in Windham township, and one over South Branch creek in Monroe township. These bridges are necessary, think the jurors, and the expense too heavy for the townships to bear, and that the county should therefore build them.

Truant Sent to House of Refuge.

Ralph Talada, the Sayre boy, who would not be good and go to school, was yesterday sentenced to the house of refuge for boys at Glens Mills. His case was disposed of in juvenile court presided over by Judge Fanning. Young Talada had many opportunities to prove his worth but failed to make good, and will now be cared for by those who make a specialty of correcting children.

Ethel Sumner Sentenced.

Ethel Sumner, the Sayre girl, who was arrested with the Cronk girl and the four men in the shop town last week, was arraigned before Judge Fanning yesterday and was sentenced to the house of refuge for girls at Philadelphia. This winds up this disgraceful affair from Sayre, both girls having been sent to the house of refuge, one man to the county jail for eight months and three other men fined heavily.

WILD DASH OF ENGINE ON W. & N. B. ROAD.

Made Record Breaking Trip From Hughesville to Halls Station.

An engine on the Williamsport and North Branch railroad made a record breaking run from Hughesville to Halls Station Monday morning without engineer or fireman or anyone else aboard. Before it came to a stop it had crashed into a string of freight cars standing on the siding at Halls, wrecking several of them and causing damage to the amount of about $3,000. The engine itself was badly damaged and will not be in condition to make another run for some time.

Whether the trottle of the engine had been left open unintentionally when it was placed in the yard Sunday night or whether some miscreant was responsible for the runaway is a matter that is now being investigated by the railroad officials. Shortly after 2 o'clock Monday morning Hostler Springer began firing up the engine and getting it ready to start out with local freight at 6 o'clock. To his great surprise, about 2:30 o'clock he noticed the locomotive moving out onto the main track under a full head of steam and with no one aboard. Realizing the situation, the hostler quickly jumped onto another engine, threw open the throttle and started in pursuit of the runaway.

Then followed a wild chase, with the runaway engine steadily gaining on its pursuer. Fortunately the track was clear as far as Halls, six miles distant and it is estimated that within six or seven minutes from the time the engine left the Hughesville yard it struck the delivery siding at Hall's Station. The first intimation the operator at Hall's had of anything unusual having occurred along the line was when the runaway locomotive flashed by the office, followed a half second later by its crash into a string of Reading freight cars on the siding. A minute later the pursuing engine with Hostler Springer in charge arrived on the scene.

SOMETHING ABOUT TESTING CATTLE FOR TUBERCULOSIS

Dr. L. G. Marshall Writes Interestingly About This Disease.

Editor of The Daily Review:

I have had many inquiries of late from farmers in Bradford county in regard to the appraisement of cattle that react to the tuberculin test. The law provides that reacting cattle are to be appraised at not to exceed two thirds of their actual value at the time of the appraisment, with a maximum limit of $40.00 for a non-registered animal and $70.00 for registered stock. Under the old law $25.00 was the maximum on non-registered and $50.00 for registered stock.

During the past week I tested 179 head of cattle, nearly all cows, nineteen of them reacted to the tuberculin in test, indicating they were tubercular, 13 of the number were found in one herd of 54 head, and none of them showing physical symptoms of tuberculosis.

Hon. Louis Piollet of Wysox is having all of his stock tested. 45 head were tested at the Shores Hill farm and only one cow reacted and this was a cow that had just been brought into the herd. It is said that Bradford county is the best dairy county in the state, and a much smaller percentage of cattle react to the tuberculin test than in the western part of the state where a small number of herds have been tested. With the present knowledge of tuberculosis and with the aid of the State Livestock Sanitary Board in disposing of animals that are tubercular it has been possible to rid the herds of diseased animals with very little loss to the owners.

JUDGE FANNING AFTER CONSTABLES

Points Out the Fact That Liquor Laws Are Being Openly Violated.

SENTENCES ADULTERER TO JAIL FOR EIGHT MONTHS

Judge Tells Officers to Make Investigation and Report to Court—Constables Who Prosecute in Good Faith Need Have No Fear.

Judge Fanning made himself heard and distinctly understood Monday at the sitting of the grand jury and the quarterly return of the constables of the county. He said things right to the point and in a way which made the officers sit up and pay attention, and if they do not obey the court's instructions, then people will have reasons to wonder why.

To Constables.

At the convening of the grand jury and the quarterly meeting of the constables Monday the judge had the following to say:

"It is reported that one or two officers have given as a reason for not returning alleged violations of the law, that they are fearful of being visited with the costs of prosecution. But two or three verdicts of a jury, to my recollection, have been rendered in the last ten years imposing costs on an officer, and these were set aside. We say to juries that a verdict placing costs on an officer who is a prosecutor in a case in the faithful discharge of his duty will not be permitted to stand. The reason given, therefore, is not an excuse for the non performances of duty. There are seen on the streets occasionally, in an intoxicated condition, men of intemperate habits and boys. They get their liquor somewhere, and whoever furnishes it whether a licensee or an individual is guilty of a criminal offense as subjecting them both to prosecution and the dealer in addition a forfeiture of his license. It is the duty of officers to ascertain who are the guilty parties. The court has no means of getting at violations of the law except from the officers charged with the performance of duties incident to their office.

"There are rumors that at one or two places games of chance are permitted by licensees. Officers will make an investigation and if true, report that fact to the court. As we have before stated go-betweens who obtain intoxicating liquor for persons of known intemperate habits and boys are violaters of the law and subject to its full penalties. It is to be hoped this practice if it exists, will be broken up."

ADULTERER GETS EIGHT MONTHS IN COUNTY JAIL.

Three Young Men Will Pay Fine of $20 and Costs For Fornication.

Another chapter is added to the disgraceful case from Sayre, which came to light last week when Mary Cronk and Ethel Sumner were arrested for keeping a bawdy house. The Cronk girl, aged 15 years was sent to the house of refuge at Philadelphia while the case against the Sumner girl has not been disposed of.

With the girls four men were arrested, one a married man. They all pleaded guilty before Judge Fanning Monday, and were given salty medicine by the court. George Bram, the married man in the case, pleaded guilty to the charge of adultery and was sentenced to pay costs, fine of $15, and undergo imprisonment in the county jail for a period of eight months.

Harry Slater, Wilbur Flickinger and John Floyd, the three unmarried men who figured in the case, each pleaded guilty to the charge of fornication, and were sentenced to pay costs, fine of $20 each and stand committed until same is paid.

Judge Sermonizes.

In passing sentence in the above cases, Judge Fanning took occasion to sermonize, giving voice to a message which should go into every home, and be given heed by every person. The court said:

"Two young girls were brought before me the latter part of the week, one but a little above fifteen, and the other seventeen. The latter a mother, and both wayward. The little girl with a frankness that is startling tells of a life that is almost beyond belief. Well educated for her years, prepossessing and exceptionally attractive, instead of making some home bright must for her own good and that of the community be sent away for discipline and training which she should have had at home and to the lack of which she emphatically attributes her downfall. This sad case of a ruined child should be a forcible reminder to mothers who are indifferent to the welfare of their young daughters and indirectly the cause of their waywardness by permitting them to roam the streets at late hours of the night subject to all manner of temptation. Four persons stand before me admitting their guilt two with this little girl and two with her companion. One of the defendants a married man with a wife to whom at the altar he solemnly vowed not only love but loyalty; the others young boys. For the offense of the former adultery, the statute prescribes imprisonment, but the latter under the indictment to which they have pleaded can only be visited with a fine. Such offences will not go unpunished and the court will sustain the efforts of officers and all good citizens to bring to justice those who are making young girls their victims. The welfare of society, the honor of womanhood, the sanctity of the home, the protection of innocent girlhood will not permit this offense to go unrebuked. Let the sentences imposed be a warning to evil doers, and notice that this court will not permit such flagrant wrongs to go unnoticed."

Constables Employ Attorneys.

The Constables Association of Bradford county met Monday with many members present. Many matters were discussed and Lilley & Wilson were employed as attorneys to inquire into various laws applying to the duties of constables. The object of the association is the mutual benefit of the constables of the county, and action will be taken from time to time to bring about a better state of affairs.

MAY PASTE MILLION POSTERS.

Billboards Will Help Teach the Prevention of Tuberculosis.

Preparations have been nearly completed for the beginning of the million dollar poster campaign against tuberculosis which will be carried on jointly by the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, the Associated Bill Posters and Distributors of America and the Poster Printers Association of the United States.

The campaign is an outcome of the convention of the Bill Posters, at which time a resolution was adopted granting free of charge to the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis space on all of the billboards controlled by this organization, located in 3,400 towns and villages of the country. The National Association was at once confronted with the difficulty of accepting the generous gift of the Bill Posters, because of the lack of funds to carry out the program proposed. The Poster Printers offered to print all of the posters free of charge, but the problem of paper was such a large one, involving so many thousands that the National Association was obliged to appeal to paper manufactures in all parts of the United States. As a result of these requests sufficient paper has been received to start printing 15,000 posters. The sketches for the designs have also been solicited from prominent artists in and around New York city.

Through the generosity of these different groups, the National Association is able to inaugurate one of the largest bill posting campaigns ever undertaken by a philanthropic organization. If sufficient paper is procured, a million posters will be pasted on billboards in every state in the Union. Bradford county will have many of them.

The posters will be 9 feet long and 7 feet wide, and will be printed in several colors. The posters are designed to show graphically how consumption can be cured and prevented. They will be distributed through the local and state anti-tuberculosis associations and through individuals interested in the crusade against this disease in all parts of the United States.

Meeting of the W. C. T. U.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union met Saturday afternoon in P. O S. of A. hall with a good attendance. The new president, Mrs. Moore, was in charge. Opened with singing, scripture reading and prayer. After the business session, Mrs. Barcus gave some very interesting glimpses from the State convention in Philadelphia. Mrs. Moore gave a report of the Mothers' Congress held at Chautauqua in July, which gave a better idea of what the true motherhood of America is doing in educating the children in temperance and virtue. The work of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union is not confined to temperance alone, but to the educating and uplifting of humanity to a higher standard of virtue and morality as well as temperance. It was decided to hold a parlor meeting next Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Rooker. All members are requested to be present and bring an interested friend. Refreshments will be served.

MEMORIAL TO THE LATE DR. CHARLES H. OTT.

Prepared by Mrs. Louis Piollet, President of Central Committee.

At a meeting of the Central committee of the R. A. Packer hospital held in the parlors of the hospital on Friday last, Mrs. Louis Piollet, president, read a memorial which she had written on the late Dr. Ott. Mrs. Howard Elmer moved that it be adopted and printed in next year's annual report of the hospital and published in the town papers of Towanda, Sayre, Athens and Waverly. In connection with this notice it was suggested that a resolution be passed in regard to the great loss the Institution has suffered in the death of Mrs. Maurice. Mrs. Elmer stated that she had prepared such a resolution and that it had been presented at the last meeting of the board of trustees. Mrs. Elmer moved that the Central committee confer with the board of trustees having heard that they contemplate a permanent memorial to Dr. Ott and that this committee request the privilege of uniting with them in contributing to the memorial through their auxiliaries. The motion was approved. It was decided to raise the money by personal contributions by the patients and friends of Dr. Ott.

Mrs. Louis Piollet, President,
Mrs. Wm Little, Recording Secretary.

Dr. Ott.

Change is written on every thing with which we are familiar. The Spring, the Summer, the golden Autumn and the icy Winter chase each other, and while we recognize the one, it is gone The first is no sooner clothed in its luxuriant foliage than it begins to dissolve, and presently its bare poles stand up against the sky. The creations of human industry and genius whether of Kingdom or code, of monument or picture, crumble away before this universal law. These changes are fraught with instruction and remind us that we shall not long continue as we now are. But it is when the stern messenger calls away one distinguished for his genius, his skill, his purity and his faith that we learn the most impressive of moral lessons. It is said that death loves a shining mark and this cannot well be more strikingly exemplified than in the death of Dr. Ott.

He was a man of scholarly attainments, a skillful surgeon, a man of enlarged views on all subjects, a devoted husband and father, a warm friend, a generous neighbor, and a worthy example to old and young at home and abroad, in public and in private. But he has gone, gone to his long home. Who will dare say the world was not better by his having lived in it.

It is not given to men to achieve perfection; else this would not be a state of discipline, but of those elements which go toward it, few possess so many as did Dr. Ott. He will long be held in grateful and affectionate remembrance for his masculine and vigorous intellect, for his pure and honest administration of the affairs of the hospital, for his careful and exact acquirement for the independence which nothing could shake, for the integrity which nothing could currupt and underlying all for that sound common sense, that intellectual as well as moral rectitude, upon which as upon a basis of enduring granite, rose the beautiful superstructure of his character. He was a kind, gentle and genial companion, a true and steadfast friend, an honest and upright man. There was much in his character to admire, and very little to condem The prominent characteristics of his life however which distinguished him above all others, and which was one of the secrets of his great success was his lofty sense of public virtue, his spotless and irreproachable integrity. Against him even the tongue of calumny could never truthfully whisper a breath of suspicion. Through all his private life and public service there shines the luster of a noble and gifted manhood, a pure and unsullied name.

A year ago he was in apparent health filled his place and performed his duties with his accustomed fidelity. A few short months brought us word that he was sick, ill, dead. It fell on our minds like an electric shock, and we could scarcely realize its sadness and solemnity. How he struggled with pain and disease how his iron will supplied place of physical strength, and forced his tired body to bear the burdens of his position until his breath grew too short for utterance and his feet too weary to bear their load.

The fortitude, endurance, courage, patience which he evinced in this struggle were typical of his character. He knew that death would conquer but he fought for every inch of time. He had never counted the odds in any contest, and he would not even when the grim monster was his antagonist. Life with him was so earnest that even sickness brought no respite from labor and responsibility He was careful in all the details of his duties. He never spared himself, and nothing was so minute as to escape his conscientious attention. His purposes were so intense that I think his life was serious even to sadness. His career on earth is ended, but his friends in their grief can point with satisfaction to his life as one well spent upon which neither spot nor blemish can be found. He lived and died an honest man, the noblest work of God. And although life was sweet and loving, yet he so died that nothing in his life became him like the leaving it.

His life was gentle and the elements, so mixed in him, that nature might stand up and say to all the world, "This was a Man".

We would not wipe from our recollection if we could the memories of this man. The love which survives the tomb is one of the noblest attributes of the soul. There is a voice from the tomb sweeter than song; there is a recollection of the dead to which we turn, even from the charms of the living.

"His star of life, sunken yet it had reached its full promise, snatched too early from that august fame that on serene heights of silvered age wait-ed with laureled hands."

"Some time, when all life's lessons have been learned,
And sun and stars forever more have set,
The things which our weak judgments have spurned,
The things o'er which we grieved with lashes wet
Will flash before us out of life's dark night,
As stars shine most in deeper tints of blue,
And we shall see how all God's plans were right,
And how what seemed reproof was love most true,

"And we shall shortly know that lengthened breath,
Is not the sweetest gift God sends His friends;
And that sometimes the sable pall of death
Conceals the fairest boon His love can send.
If we could push ajar the gates of life,
And stand within, and all God's workings see,
We could interpret all this doubt and strife,
And for each mystery could find a key.

"But not to-day. Then be content, poor heart!
God's plans, like lilies, pure and white, unfold;
We must not tear the close-shut leaves apart,
Time will reveal the calyxes of gold,
And if through patient toil we reach the land
Where tired feet with sandals loose may rest,
When we shall clearly know and understand,
I think that we will say—'God knew the best.'"

MARRIAGE RECORD

Lynch—Cawley.

The Church of SS. Peter and Paul was the scene of a quiet, but very pretty wedding at 8 o'clock Wednesday morning, when William P. Lynch of Burlington, and Miss Mary Cawley of Towanda, were united in marriage. Rev. Father Coroner, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony, which was followed by a nuptial mass. No invitations had been issued and only the immediate relatives of the contracting parties witnessed the ceremony. Miss Anna G. Cawley of Glen Ridge, N. J., was the bride's maid, while Philip Lynch, nephew of the groom, was best man. The bride was becomingly attired in a traveling suit of blue broad cloth with a black picture hat, while the bridesmaid wore a becoming traveling suit of mauve broadcloth. Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Lynch left for a short wedding trip. The bride is a very highly esteemed young lady. After the usual congratulations were extended the happy party enjoyed a wedding supper. Mr. and Mrs. Schroth are popular young people of Laceyville as was attested by the array of presents received. The Doctor's First Question

"How are your bowels?" This is generally the first question the doctor asks. He knows what a sluggish liver means. He knows what a long list of distressing complaints result from constipation. He knows that headaches, bilious attacks, indigestion, impure blood, and general debility are often promptly relieved by a good liver pill. We wish you would talk with your own doctor about this subject. Ask him at the same time if he approves of Ayer's Pills. Do as he says. J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

THANKSGIVING.

Thanksgiving and Christmas are peculiarly festivals of the home and tipify domestic peace and plenty. They come when the harvests have been gathered and the business of the year is drawing to a close. In the observance of Thanksgiving our thoughts are centered upon the blessings nearest to us and in the family circle we count the rosary of God's best gifts. Whether one believes in that providential beneficence that crowns virtue and industry with material rewards or leads to the fatalistic view, it is well to pause for a day in the cycle of the seasons and review the things that we can be truly thankful for.

It does not make a severe draft on public optimism for the United States as a Nation to perceive abundant and manifold reasons for returning thanks for prosperity, the means for material happiness and the evidence of mental and moral progress. There have been years, perhaps, when the occasion called for a strenuous fixing of the mind on the merciful dispensations that compensated for drawbacks and adversities. But this is not one of them. The business of the country, after a depression of nearly two years, is fast approaching high tide. Its harvests are more than abundant. Its labor is fully employed and its products of all sorts, are at a maximum.

The material drawbacks of the year are those which always come after a money panic and a period of business inactivity, but these are nearly at an end and a comparison of this year with those not very remote inthe past, and the still more striking contrast between the people of the nation at this time with the people in other parts of the world, is ample reason for devout gratitude to the Providence that has conferred these blessings.

It does not require the exercise of an uncommon degree of sagacity to make one realize that the United States is undoubtedly, now facing the full tide of the proudest, happiest and most prosperous period in all its history, and also, that in almosst every respect, that this world is a better world than it was a century or even a quarter of a century ago. Conditions are more equitable. Justice is administered more fairly. Philanthropy has developed new avenues of utility. Science has opened the way to the greater enjoyment of life by giving us mor comforts and better health. In fact, in whatever direction we turn, we find that we are constantly making progress toward the goal where the rights of man will be recognized and there will be no more oppression.

It is true that we are still far from this goal, but we are fighting our way toward it constantly and steadily, and as long as we can see that we are making progress there is litle reason why we should become discouraged. A glance through the pages of history will show us that that there is more the spirit of peace and good will in the world today than there has been; that there is more love, more charity, more tolerance; and that when to all this we add our recognition of the many conditions that are so certain to lead us to another period of national and individual prosperity, it is hard to imagine why any person should find it difficult to be properly thankful for the blessings of life in this age of twentieth century civilization.

A slander suit was tried at New Albany last week and the plaintiff was awarded the sum of $3. He asked for damages in the sum of $2,000, and it cost him about $30 besides his attorney fees to bring the suit. Slander suits are not popular, and we think they don't pay, or more of them would be brought, for everyone knows there is enough slander current continually to keep the courts busy. In some parts of the country such a thing as a suit at law to vindicate one's good name would be laughed out of court, and the plaintiff would be advised to "take it out of his hide," which manner of settlement is sometimes more advisable than by course of law. A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches, and one should not submit quietly and without protest to personal defamation, but by process of law is an uncertain way of getting satisfaction. In the New Albany case the plaintiff did not get much in the way of damages, but he has posted the defendant before society and, perhaps, satisfied a desire for revenge.

Do not forget that the principal cause of typhoid fever is polluted drinking water, to which 80 per cent. of the cases are due. The moral of this is to boil the water, and this is the season of the year in which there is particular need of it if you are at all suspicious of the water, for the fall typhoid season is now on.

A DEMOCRATIC HOPE.

The unusual and surprising vote of Cyrus L. Munson of Willimsport, the Democratic candidate for judge of the supreme court, has set the politicians on both sides thinking and figuring, and has already altered some plans. It has instilled some hope in the hearts of the Democrats, and that, in Pennsylvania, is noteworthy. Mr. Munson carried 43 of the 67 counties. He carried 21 Republican counties which at present have 12 Republican votes in the state senate, and 38 Republican representatives in the lower house of the legislature. These results have fired the Democrats with a realization of new-found importance and they think they see a rift in the clouds and try to believe that brighter days are in store for them. They are doing some figuring on what the Munson vote means to them, and the probabilities are that their figures are altogether too fine, but it don't hurt them to figure.

Independent Democrats declare that if Munson is chosen to head the state ticket at the June primaries, or some other man of the very highest type within the Democratic party is nominated for governor, there should be little or no difficulty in duplicating the Munson vote of November 2. They figure that they could then make the independent political movement spread throughout the state from Philadelphia and Allegheny county and probably elect the 12 senators and 38 representatives from the Republican counties carried by Munson. This would change the vote in the senate from 37 Republicans and nine Democrats to 25 Republicans and 21 Democrats, and in the lower house the Munson vote would change the line-up from 146 Republicans and 50 Democrats to 108 Republicans and 88 Democrats. That, they argue, would make Senator Oliver's re-election doubtful, and perhaps impossible in a three-cornered fight with a Democrat and an independent Republican as Senator Oliver's rival.

This is all very fine, but the lesson of the Munson vote has not been lost upon the Republican leaders. It is declared that the next candidate for governor will be a man of Governor Stuart's type and fully exceptable to the voters. The Munson vote has had a good effect, and will continue to have, and this effect is another confirmation of the truth of the oft-repeated statement that a more even balance of strength between the two parties than exist in Pennsylvania in desirable. It is said that quite a number of aspirants for the governorship, among them Speaker Cox, have been bowled out completely by the Munson vote. The leaders are no longer looking for an Organization man, but are said to be looking for an available man who has absolutely no organization connection. The Munson vote was a good thing.

Philadelphia's vote is a powerful factor in our elections. In the late election Judge von Moschzisker's plurality in the entire state was 82,843, but his Philadelphia plurality was 131,193. So it is plain that by the vote of the 66 counties outside of Philadelphia Mr. Munson's plurality over Judge von Moschzisker was 48,350. When it is figured by majorities the contrast between the Philadelphia and the outside-of-Philadelphia vote is even more striking. Von Moschzisker's majority over the Democratic, Prohibition and Socialist candidates in the state was 35,037, but in Philadelphia his majority was 126,452. So that in the state outside of Philadelphia von Moschzisker had 91,415 less than the combined vote of the candidates against him. These figures are very significant, says the Philadelphia Press. "They show that the voters of the state are not disposed to accept any candidate given them, whether they approve him or not. Though the city vote in this instance carried the day the student of figures will see the wisdom of making nominations that command the respect and confidence of the whole people if success is to be counted on hereafter."

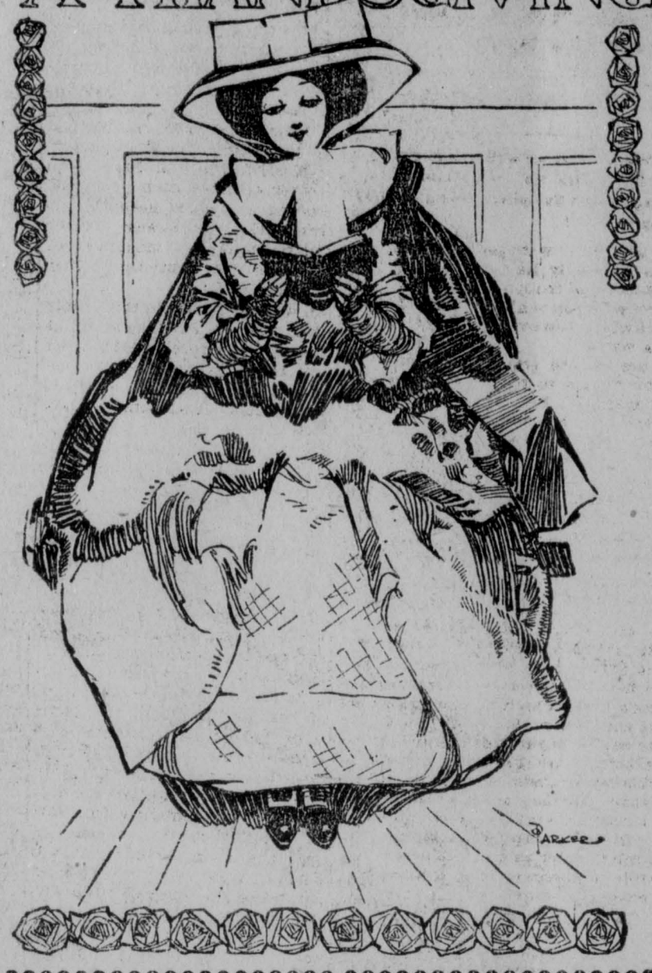
The way in which the farmers have taken up state zoologist Surface's offer to establish model orchards has surprised him, and shows that at present Pennsylvania farmers are headed pretty strongly towards good orchards and large fruit crops. The state zoologist says that he has received offers from almost every county in the state. His proposition is to establish several hundred model orchards where owners of fruit farms can have an opportunity to inspect methods of fighting scale and pruning. It is an excellent idea and Bradford county being one of the largest in the state should have several of the models for the use of her fruit growers. Four hundred orchards have been offered for the use of the state.

Chicago's new superintendent of schools prescribes the following equipment for the ideal teacher: Patience, philosophy, humor, good humor, steadfastness, health, persistence, clearheadedness, sympathy, diplomacy, persuasiveness, positiveness, gentleness, open-mindedness, force, enthusiasm, pointedness, clairvoyance, independence, friendliness and charm. Outside of these requirements the needs nothing unless it is nice clothes.

We read that Thomas White of the county house at West Burlington has with his jack knife made a number of really good violins. A man who can whittle as well as that ought to be able to whittle himself out of the poorhouse.

Even the New York Times and the New York Sun are pounding the Sugar Trust. The Trust must be in desperate straits when it can't be defended by trust organs.

A THANKSGIVING PRAYER



CLORINDA, in the meeting house
The worthy parson prays,
And goodly thanks he gives for these
Most prosperous of days.
Your stately parents on their ways
Besought you not to stay,
But hasten with your meed of praise
On this Thanksgiving day.

Clorinda, oh, I watch you go
In flowered satin dressed;
You wear my heart upon your sleeve
That all the town may jest,
And when you kneel among the rest
Give thanks for this, I say:
You've not the grief that tears my breast
On this Thanksgiving day.

Clorinda of the rose red lips
That laugh me into scorn,
Must I alone mid happy folk
Be saddest of men born?
Ah, give me, sweet, this gracious morn
The word I needs must pray,
And grant unto a swain forlorn
A real Thanksgiving day.

IT IS UP TO THE CONSTABLES.

In court on Monday Judge Fanning told the quarterly meeting of the county's constables that they need not fear that costs of prosecution would be put on them in case they reported instances of violation of the law by liquor dealers. The court was moved to say this by a report that one or two officers had given as a reason for not returning alleged violations that they feared they would have to pay the costs. The assurance direct from the court that a verdict placing the costs on an officer who is a prosecutor in a case, and who is acting in discharge of duty, will not be permitted to stand, puts it up to the constables to do their duty in the matter and removes any excuse they have had for not doing it. There is not the slightest doubt there would be more prosecutions for violation of the liquor laws if constables reported the facts in their several districts. Let them do their duty. They have no excuse for not doing it. The temperance people of the county (and they are many more of them than the number of votes cast for Prohibition at the election the other day) will be glad to hear of this assurance from the court to the constables, and will look for practical results from it. For everyone knows that there have been numerous unreported violations. It is up to you, Messrs. Constables. What were you elected to do? This problem of restraint of the liquor traffic and keeping it within bounds is largely one of enforcement of the law. The law is not enforced, and never has been. The Brooks law, now on the statute books of this state, is a good one. If it were enforced a great change would be effected. The principal speaker at the local option meeting held in Towanda last week well said that if the Brooks high license law were enforced, Pennsylvania would be practically as dry as any of the local option or prohibition states. He was right. Enforce the law. Do your duty, Messrs. Constables.

William Jennings Bryan, the perennial and perpetual and peerless, who is never too tired or discouraged or too badly licked to hunt for a new issue, is reported to believe he has found one—a live one this time, and it is—what do you think? Prohibition. That issue was found years ago, but now Bryan is said to be preparing to make the Democratic party adopt it and make a national fight on it. The news article from Lincoln printed in Monday's papers said: "Bryan lays his defeats in former campaigns to the liquor interests." We are not at this time inclined to give the "liquor interests" credit for having done much for the advancement of the nation or the welfare of the race, but if it shall be shown that they saved the country three times from Bryan and his "issues" many will be inclined to say in a loud voice "Bully for the liquor interests."

Dislike of the cigarette has often been manifested by fathers, mothers and guardians, and sometimes figures in the disposition of legacies. Thus a young man named Acker, of Atlantic Highlands, N. J., has been left $25,000 by his grandfather on condition that for the next 24 years Acker shall refrain from indulging in cigarettes or participating in dissipation. To get the regular allowance under the will Acker must at stated periods make affidavit that he has complied strictly with the terms. That ought to be pretty fair test of a young man's preference. The sum of $25,000 should be an acceptable offset to deprivation of cigarette smoking.

BUTTER FOR OURS.

A citizen of Towanda informs us that the other day a Towanda physician told him that he (the physician) would as lief eat oleomargarine as butter. There is no accounting for tastes, but we prefer the butter. We believe that good butter (and most Bradford county butter is good) is the most wholesome form of fat that is used in modern dietaries, that some form of fat is necessary in the dietary, and that butter is the best form. We also believe that as a substitute for butter the best grades of oleomargarine sold today serve an excellent purpose, and that, in view of the high price now asked for butter, oleomargarine enables many to have and enjoy this neccessary form of food who cannot afford to buy butter. But when it comes to a choice we will take butter on our bread, rather than oleomargarine. Here in Bradford county butter is a known quantity and to it attaches no mystery. This is butter's home and native heath, and when the hungry Bradford countian looks on it, be it in five or ten pound pail, or the roll, or the tub, or on the table, he looks on the face of an old friend, tried and true, and satisfying. Its pedigree can be quickly traced and he who will may know its origin and inspect its credentials. And this is one big advantage that butter has over its new pretentious and aggressive rival. Apropos of the butter-oleomargarine discussion the Troy Gazette-Register, published at what is claimed to be Bradford county's chief butter market, says:

"One marked effect of the increasing sales of oleomargarine, has been to practically kill the market for everything but the higher grade of butter. The consumers of low or medium grade butter are turning in increasing numbers to oleo and what the consumer will not buy the dealers cannot handle. A secondary result is likely to be to force into the creameries many who now make their butter at home, unless they shall by extra efforts, bring up their product to present market requirements."

The local optionists had a successful and well attended meeting in Towanda last week, and are lining up for the battle. If they carry out the plans formulated last Wednesday Bradford county will soon be organized for local option, and the fight to elect a local option legislature in 1910 will be on. Would-be candidates for the legislature will take notice. Both of Bradford county's members in the 1908 legislature supported the local option bill.

We see by the Laporte News Item, which is now conducted by brother Taylor of the New Albany Mirror, that Mr. Taylor is in favor of woman suffrage. He ends a paragraph on the subject as follows: "The fact of the matter is, if women were physically able to knock every man down that stood between her and the ballot box, the servility of 'the lords of creation' in handing her a vote would be amusing to watch. There is no question about her patriotism and mental fitness."

Though reports from other parts of the State seem to indicate that there has been a loose observance of the game laws this Fall, such has not been the case in this section. Even the law regarding the killing of rabbits has been observed with greater rigidity than ever before, though many believe that it is a mistake to delay the opening of the rabbit season for fifteen days after the season is opened for the other varieties of small game.

A hothouse, which will be the world's largest structure of the kind, is being erected at North Wales, Pa., and will be devoted exclusively to the growth of American Beauty roses, 100,000 bushels of which will find shelter beneath its immense expanse of glass. The flowers will be grown by the ton. The house will be 700 feet long, 172 feet wide and 36 feet in height at its highest point. In its construction there will be used no less than 122½ tons of glass. It will be heated by steam, sixty-five tons of piping being required for the purpose. The foundation and sides of the structure will be of concrete. Its temperature must be maintained at about 60 degrees during the Winter. The American Beauty rose evidently is a product worthy of expensive cultural attention. At the height of the social season, from Christmas until after Easter, the roses sell at $6 to $18 a dozen. It ought to be a profitable institution.

At this season of the year the use of the split-log drag is said to work wonders in making roads good. By ovaling up the surface of the road it is in shape for the rains that fall and if it freezes in that condition, it will assure a fine surface to travel over as long as the frost is in the ground. To put a few dollars worth of improvements on roads at this season of the year is as important as in the Spring.

FAMILY CURED OF SKIN TROUBLES

Two Little Girls had Eczema Very Badly—In One Case Child's Hair Came Out and Left Bare Patches—Father's Head Sore from Childhood—In All Three Cases

CUTICURA MET WITH ITS USUAL SUCCESS

"I have two little girls who have been troubled very badly with eczema. One of them had it on her lower limbs. I did everything that I could hear of for her, but it did not give in until warm weather when it seemingly subsided. The next winter when it became cold weather the eczema started again and also in her head where it would take the hair out and leave bare patches as large as a quarter of a dollar. At the same time her arms were sore the whole length of them. I took her to a physician and he said that she had two distinct types of eczema. I continued with him for several weeks and the child grew worse all of the time. Her sister's arms were also affected in the same way. My husband came home one day with a box of Cuticura Ointment and a cake of Cuticura Soap. I began using them and also the Cuticura Pills and by the time the second lot was used their skin was soft and smooth as it had not been before for the winter. We keep the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment constantly by us and when any little roughness or irritation appears on their skin I quickly dispel it with the Cuticura Remedies. My husband has used them with most satisfactory results for a sore head which has troubled him from childhood. Mrs. Charles Baker, Albion, Me., Sept. 21, 1908."

Cuticura Ointment is one of the most successful remedies for torturing, disfiguring humors of the skin and scalp, including loss of hair, of infants, children and adults, ever compounded, in proof of which a single anointing with it, preceded by a hot bath with Cuticura Soap, and followed by mild doses of Cuticura Pills, is often sufficient to afford immediate relief in the most distressing forms of itching, burning and scaly humors, eczemas, irritations and inflammations, permit rest and sleep and point to a speedy cure when all else fails.

Cuticura Soap (25c.), Ointment (50c.), Resolvent (50c.), and Chocolate Coated Pills (25c.), are sold throughout the world. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Props., 137 Columbus Ave., Boston.

MR. MAN, IT IS UP TO YOU.

Whether Pennsylvania will ever have a local option or prohibition law or not remains to be seen, but we will all admit that the liquor traffic is the greatest curse of the civilized world, always has been, and there has not been much improvement during the last century.

In every community it is easy to number a great many bright young men who have been total failures because they could not leave the fatal glass alone. How many can we name right here in Towanda who have wrecked themselves on the rocks of Booze, and how many more are steering their barks through the surf of the social glass only to go to pieces on the rocks of drunkenness Intemperance is the greatest foe to success known to the human race. When once its fangs are fastened on a person the power to get away from it seems absolutely gone. We have known several young men to attempt to loosen the grasp of the fiend but it ended only in failure.

The big employers, those with thousands of men upon their payrolls are insisting upon sobriety; they will not employ a man known to be addicted to the liquor habit, and it is having a far reaching effect.

The drunkard, or the tippler is known by his conduct, and if he makes a success in life, if he provides for his wife and his children as they should be provided for, he can spend little or no money for booze.

Local option, or no local option in Pennsylvania, Mr. Man we want to say to you that the temperance or liquor question is up to you now and henceforth. If you would have your children sober and industrious, it is up to you to educate them to the evils of intemperance. Local option is all right, but it may be a long time before we have such a law, and there is no telling how many lives will be ruined in the interim.

Mr. Man, the booze question is up to you.

The Athens Gazette informs us that "Honest Bob" Edmiston, the Milan statesman, said before going to Nebraska the other day that he would be back in time to "look after the congressional nomination." We advise him to look before and not after, on the principle that it is well to look before you leap. We imagine that the congressional nomination of the Fourteenth district will stand a lot of looking after before it comes to "Honest Bob," and that when it does pick him out he will look a good deal worse after the election than he did before.

AWARD OF $3 IN THE BUMP-HAKES SLANDER CASE.

Arbitrators Find in Favor of Plaintiff, Who is Money Out.

S. D. Steregere, Jacob H. Covey, and Orval C. Cranmer, sitting as arbitrators at New Albany Thursday, awarded Denis L. Bump a verdict for $3 in the action for damages for slander against John J. Hakes.

The law of March 27, 1713, which is the only one applying to such cases, notwithstanding the fact that it is nearly two hundred years old, provides that. "The plaintiff in an action for slander who recovers damages in a sum less than $5, cannot recover costs in excess of damages awarded."

This means that Mr. Bump, the plaintiff, who paid his costs as he went along, which is customary in such cases, is out about $30 besides his attorney fees on the award of the arbitrators.

This case which comes from Albany township, grew out of alleged remarks made by Mr. Hakes, and which Mr. Bump took exception to, alleging that his credit had been damaged, and his reputation injured, for which he asked damages in the sum of $2,000. The case occupied a good share of Thursday. Over 30 witnesses were subpoenaed, but only five testified.

J. G. Scouten of Dushore, was attorney for Mr. Bump, while David E. Kaufman of Towanda, represented the defendant.

Work of Miscreant.

A contemptible trick was attempted against the Lin-ta hose company, but fortunately it did not work. Yesterday morning, when the Lin-tas responded to the alarm of fire, sent in from Frosts' factory they attached their hose to a hydrant. The water was not turned on and after a few minutes when it was decided that the services of the firemen would not be needed, the hose was uncoupled from the hydrant. Then it was found that a hard rock had been fitted into the hose, just inside the coupling, making it impossible to get water through. Had the water been turned on, the hose would have burst, and caused great delay. The members of the Lin-ta company are justly indignant over the affair, and steps will be taken to ascertain, if possible who placed the rock in the hose.

Another Valley Rumor.

A rumor is afloat that the Lehigh Valley Railroad company is preparing to build a mammoth machine shop in connection with the round house at the Coxton yards. The largest round house on the Valley system is in course of construction at the Coxton yard, and when completed will have cost over $100,000. The plans call for a reinforced concrete structure 300 feet in length and 100 feet in width to be located along the bank of the river above the round house. Mammoth new coal dumpers will shortly be erected at the yards, and will be used for filling engine tenders with coal. It is not definitely known just what will be done at Coxton in regard to the new shops, but present improvements and those contemplated will make this yard one of the busiest along the road, and will mean renewed activity for the other industries in and about Pittston.—Hazleton Standard.

Fire at Elmira.

The Elmira city hall was badly damaged by fire Thursday morning, the loss being at least $50,000. The fire was discovered at 5:30 o'clock by a street car conductor, at which time the third and fourth floors of the building were aflame from one end to the other. The origin of the fire is a mystery.

WEST IS STILL ROAD SUPERVISORS

Judge Fanning Dismisses Proceedings to Oust Him From Office.

Judge Fanning Thursday dismissed the quo warranto proceedings instituted by L. J. Biles and others to oust Frank West from the office of road supervisor of Wyalusing township on the grounds that he was not eligible to serve, having acted as an inspector of the election during which he was chosen one of the supervisors.

The case is of considerable interest to the people of Bradford county. In deciding the case, Judge Fanning says in part:

Wyalusing township is divided into two election districts. Respondent, Mr. West, was an inspector of election by appointment to fill a vacancy in district No. 1. At the February election and while serving in that capacity he was a candidate for road supervisor, and receiving a majority of votes in both districts was declared elected and entered upon the discharge of his duties. Upon the petition of L. J. Biles and eight others setting forth the facts above related, a writ of quo warranto was issued to determine his right to said office. It is urged as a defence, first, that the fact of respondent being an inspector of election did not disqualify him from election to the office of road supervisor, and second that petitioners, as such, had no standing to contest his right to said office.

"It is contended on the part of petitioners that by the act of June 26, 1895, P. L. 392, which provides, inter alia, "That no inspector of election, judge or other officer of any such election, shall be eligible to any office to be then voted for, except that of an election officer" disqualifies respondent from holding said office.

"The act cited amends the act of June 10, 1893, P. L. 419 and, in this particular, is substantially the same as the act of June 19, 1891, P. L. 349.

"These acts relate to general elections, notice of which is required to be given by the sheriff. They have no reference to township elections. The act of June 13, 1840, P. L. 684, relating to township officers, provides as follows: "But nothing in this act, or in the act to which this is a supplement, shall be construed to prohibit a judge, inspector or clerk of election from being voted for to fill a judge, inspector or clerk of election from being voted for to fill any township office or render either or any of them ineligible to hold the same.

"Respondent is not disqualified from holding and discharging the duties of the office to which he was elected, even though at the time of his election, he was an inspector.

"Another reason exists why this application must fail. It does not appear that the relators have an interest to be affected beyond that of the public in general. True it is, the act of June 14, 1836, provides that that where any person shall usurp or unlawfully hold any county or township office, a writ of quo warranto may be issued upon the suggestion of the attorney general, or his deputy the district attorney, or any person or persons desiring to prosecute the same * * * *.

"Here no individual grievance is alleged or involved. The relators, so far as appears, have no particular interest to be affected or special injury to be redressed. The party receiving the next highest number of votes, who perhaps, if the respondent was ineligible to the office, might have had a colorable title to the office, is not one of the relators, or complaining. The relators allege no special or private wrong, and therefore, have no legal standing as individuals to institute or maintain this proceeding.

"After hearing and after argument and full consideration, the proceedings are dismissed at the cost of the relators. An exception is noted for the relators and a bill sealed."

A committee representing the trustees of the Robert Packer hospital is inspecting the hospitals in Wilkes-Barre and Scranton. The committee is composed of Hon. J. K. Newell and Rodney A. Mercur, Esq., of Towanda, Dr. J. W. Chamberlain of Wyalusing and M. H. Sawtelle and Bert Hayden of Sayre. They are studying the methods of managing the hospitals in those cities with the view of preparing a report in regard to the future management of the Robert Packer hospital.—Sayre Times-Record.

Painful Injury.

Orla Conrad, an employee of the J. O. Frosts Sons was painfully injured in the furniture factory Thursday. He accidentally backed against a swiftly revolving sandpaper wheel, which made a laceration in his right shoulder six inches long. Eight stitches were necessary to close the wound which was dressed by Dr. C. S. Means.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portions of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflamation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

CAVALRY ON THE MOVE

They Usually Travel at a Walk While on a March.

CAREFUL OF THEIR HORSES.

Reasons Why a Trot or a Gallop Might Prove Disastrous to the Animals. The Wagons and Supplies—Going Into Camp at Night.

People unfamiliar with the marching of troops frequently have the impression that mounted troops usually travel at a trot or gallop while on a march. In the cavalry, however, the gait is usually a walk.

There are reasons why it is not advisable for cavalry to trot or gallop on its road marches. The trooper is required to carry his three weapons—rifle, pistol and saber—over a hundred rounds of ball ammunition, his blanket, shelter tent, canteen, extra horseshoes and sundry other articles, all of which add considerable weight to that of the trooper.

This weight is more or less concentrated at comparatively few points instead of being uniformly distributed over the horse's back, so that at a trot, in spite of all that may be done to avoid it, the concussion at certain points is considerable and if kept up tends to develop blisters and sores on the horse's back, which may increase until the animal is no longer fit to use.

As the supply department furnishes but one horse to each trooper, differing in this respect from the mounts of the cowboy, who has as many as he wants, a constant vigilance is required on the part of the captain while on a long march in order to keep his horses serviceable and prevent his troopers from becoming dismounted.

This he accomplishes in part by marching at a walk whenever the circumstances will admit it. By means of the walk we make four miles an hour, says Captain William F. Flynn, U. S. A., in Forest and Stream, and as twenty-five miles is considered a fair day's march it is thus made in about seven hours, considering the necessary halts. The wagons carrying our supplies can go no faster than that, and there is rarely any advantage in reaching one's camping ground very much in advance of the wagons.

It is customary with individual tourists and campers upon making camp to turn their horses loose and either to watch them or else trust to luck in the matter of finding them again. We are not permitted to do this in the army. We always mean to provide grain for our animals on the march, and when we are unable to buy hay en route and thus have to rely upon grazing we put each horse out on a rope fastened to a picket pin driven in the ground.

On the march each mounted man carries his lariat and pin attached to his saddle and as soon as he unsaddles seeks a good grazing place for his horse and drives his pin in the ground. The horse thus gets a limited area upon which to graze. The pins are changed once or twice during the evening, and as the horse stays all night on his rope he gets a pretty fair chance at the grass, after all, and when we want him in the morning we can find him.

The horses having been unsaddled and disposed of, the men then put up their shelter tents. A shelter tent is a convenient little affair made in two halves to accommodate nicely two soldiers. Each soldier carries his half and his pole with him on his blanket roll attached to his saddle, so as soon as he unsaddles he can select his "bunkie" and put up his tent. The officers' tents are wall tents, carried in the wagons and cannot be put up till the wagons come in.

As soon as that takes place details of men put up the officers' tents, get wood and water for the cooks, and the latter build their fire and at once set about getting supper. Soldiers like to have their food well cooked; but, better still, they appear to like it promptly cooked, and that camp cook is always popular who yells "Come and get it!" just a little sooner than it is expected.

On the march we eat but two meals a day. After breakfast the cooks give each man a liberal sandwich of bacon and bread. This the man incloses in his meat can and when he gets hungry eats it. This constitutes his midday meal.

Supper over, a guard is posted to look out for the safety of the camp, and the other men usually collect fuel, build a rousing fire, gather round it and amuse themselves by singing, telling yarns and cracking jokes upon each other till bedtime, which comes pretty early with men on the march. The officers fill in the time in about the same manner.

On the march one always has to rise early. There are so many things to be done in order to get the cavalcade fairly on the road that early rising is essential. The guard rouses the cooks long before daylight, and by the time the horses are fed and brushed off the cook announces breakfast. After breakfast the tents are taken down, wagons packed, the horses saddled, and the column is once more on the march.

TOWANDA FAIR GETS OVER HALF OF STATE APPROPRIATION

Has Largest Number of County Exhibits, Thus Receiving Big Share.

Of the four fairs held in Bradford county during the past Summer, the exhibition of the Bradford County Agricultural Society on the East Towanda Fair grounds was the greatest of them all in the eyes of the state authorities. The State appropriates $1,000 for fairs in this as well as in other counties each year, and this amount is divided according to the fairs having the largest number of exhibits of articles manufactured or produced in the county upon which premiums are paid.

There were four fairs in this county this year, and the Towanda or Bradford County Fair receives the lion's share of the state appropriation because it had more exhibits, and paid more premiums. Following is how the State has divided the $1,000 appropriation among the four fair associations:

Towanda	$509.58
Troy	209.63
Athens	173.33
Wyalusing	107.46

The Flying Dutchman.

Harry W. Bigger, machinist for the Trexler & Tyrrell Lumber Co. of Rickets, recently perfected a machine for matching heading, which is a marvel in its line. Heretofore the matching of heading has cost an awful waste of lumber, as a slight flaw would necessitate cutting away a great portion of the board to remove the flaw. But with the new device, the flaw can be sawed out with a saving of from 25 to 75 per cent. of material, and saving of material also saves times and labor. Mr. Bigger has christened the machine "The Flying Dutchman," and has all points fully covered with patents.—Dushore Review.

Canton Burglary.

Says this week's Canton Sentinel: The residence of Floyd Innes, on Troy street, was burglarized Tuesday night, the indications being that a female Raffles is abroad in the land. Entrance was effected through the pantry window, the screen being removed and a pane of glass broken to enable the burglar to reach in and unsnap the catch held the window. The lower part of the house was pretty thoroughly ransacked, but all that was taken was a skirt and hat belonging to Mrs. Innes, a couple of dozen handkerchiefs, a Masonic charm and chain, and about $15 in cash. The silver was undisturbed. Tracks left behind show a narrow soled shoe, which, with the articles taken, would indicate that the offender was a burglaress instead of a bold, bad, desperate man, with a mask, club and dark lantern. Certain clues have been placed in the hands of the police, and it is not improbable that the thief may be caught.

Coal mining is in such a prosperous condition in the Clearfield county regions that in some places the operators are finding difficulty in getting help. The same conditions are true in the Cambria regions. The Cambria Steel company is having trouble getting men for its Johnstown mines and the operators from Greenwhich Boswell and Jerome are trying to entice away some of the men the Johnstown operators have.

A dispatch from Galeton says: David Kline, whose home is at Austin, was killed in the woods near Wharton Monday. He was one of a crew of a Buffalo and Susquehanna log train, and was in the act of making a coupling, when protruding timbers caught and crushed his head. His death was instantaneous. He had just started to work, the coupling being the first duty of the day. He is survived by his widow and six children.

A unique sight recalling the good old days when cattle, sheep, swine and even turkeys and geese were driven to market instead of being transported by rail, was witnessed in Upper Strasburg, Franklin county, on Monday, when a flock of more than 200 turkeys was driven into that town. They were purchased by Joseph Shearer and Landlord Martin, of the Eagle Hotel, in Path Valley, and were driven across the mountain on foot.

President McEnaney, of district No. 1, United Mine Workers, will bring action in the courts to oust the twenty-seven members of the mine examining boards of the district, in which is included the Wilkes-Barre section. The man is said to be in prison, having been arrested at Lock Haven, and taken to West Virginia, where Mrs. Kerns II resides.

THEODORE R. MACAFEE RETIRES FROM GROCERY FIRM

Burton Streevy Purchases His Interest In Business.

After thirteen years of success in the grocery business, Theodore R. Macafee has sold his half interest in the Macafee & Stevens store at the corner of Main and Bridge streets to Burton Streevy and will enjoy a needed rest. Mr. Macafee started in the grocery business with Jesse L. Schoonover, the firm name being Schoonover & Macafee. Later, George Stevens was admitted as a member of the firm, the name being changed to Schoonover, Macafee & Stevens. Poor health compelled Mr. Schoonover to retire and the firm became Macafee & Stevens. Under the new arrangement, the firm will be known as Stevens & Streevy.

Mr. Streevy, who has purchased Mr. Macafee's interest, has been connected with the firm for the past six years. He is very familiar with the business, and the new firm will no doubt enjoy the same liberal patronage accorded the old.

Mr. Macafee will take a good long rest, in the hopes of regaining his former strength and health. During his thirteen years in business he has been very attentive to his duties and to him is due a great deal of credit for the success of the firm.

MR. KIPP SPENT $4,000.

Towandian Gave That Amount to Democratic State Committee.

Hon. George W. Kipp of Towanda, who was the Democratic candidate for state treasurer, has filed his statement of expenses at Harrisburg, showing an outlay of $4,000 in the unsuccessful campaign. The amount, according to his statement, was given to the Democratic state committee.

It will be remembered that when Mr. Kipp was first mentioned for the state treasurship, and just before the state convention at which he was nominated, he stated that he would not be a candidate, as he did not propose to be bled for a large sum of money. Colonel Guffey took the matter in charge, and Mr. Kipp accepted the nomination.

While four thousand dollars is a lot of money to the average person, to Mr. Kipp it is but a drop when expended in a good cause. He put his faith in the Democratic party, spent his money without a whimper, and the vote he received proves that it was not expended in vain. He can be justly proud of the vote he received not only in his home town and county, but throughout the state.

Levi Stalford Greatly Improved.

Says the Laceyville Messenger: Levi Stalford, whose name has appeared many times in these columns during the past few months owing to the many operations, performed on him at the Packer Hospital, Sayre, is mending again and was on Tuesday of last week able to go for a rabbit hunt, when he had the luck to bag six of the cotton tails. Levi is taking on flesh, and his general appearance shows that he has made vast strides toward an ultimate recovery—a consumation at which, his many friends will greatly rejoice. On Friday he left on No. 8, for Washington, D. C., where he will enter a sanitarium at Tacoma Park, he believing that a few weeks spent at that institution, will be of material benefit to him."

Cupid Has an Inning.

Government Making Good.

Wm. W. Loeb of Laporte, who served in the war as a private in Co. C of the 4th N. J., and Co. I of the 6th N. Y. Child Badly Scalded.

Victor, the young son of Joseph Buley of Waverly, was badly scalded on the neck and shoulders Sunday morning. The boy sat at the breakfast table and one of the other children started across the floor with a dipper full of boiling water, and when near the boy, the child slipped and spilled the boiling water on the back of the boy's neck and shoulders.

Serious Operation.

Miss Jeannette Smith of Troy, one of the young ladies who visited the Bermuda Islands as the guest of the Towanda Printing company last June, on Saturday underwent an operation for the removal of an abscess on the back of the head. The operation was performed at the Williamsport hospital, and was very successful.

INVITE HIM BACK.

F. R. Wright Writes From South Bend, Washington.

F. R. Wright, a native of Bradford county, in writing to a Towanda friend has the following to say which indicates that he is not only a native of this county, but is also entitled to an invitation to attend the next old home day celebration in Towanda.

"I am especially inerested in your letter from the fact of having been born in Bradford county 65 years ago. Moved from there in 1852 and have never been back, yet I can remember a great deal about Towanda and Ulster Corners, etc. Was born in the town of Burlington. My father, Lyman Wright, was pilot on rafts of lumber down the Susquehanna river for a number of years. Have been in Washington for 25 years and in South Bend for 13 years. Like the country very much but what pleases me might not please you. Labor is scarce here and wages good. Common labor from $2.00 to $2.50 per day. Carpenters $3.50 to $4.00. Engineers $3.50 to $4.50, etc. There is considerable railroad building going on and lots of other work. Lumbering and fishing are the principal industries here."

Made Good.

A short time ago a Honesdale housewife accidentally threw into her kitchen range, along with some papers where the money had been laid, a five dollar note and two one dollar bills. Discovering what she had done, she quickly called her husband to save from destruction the money she had thrown in the fire. He succeeded in recovering remnants of each note and taking them before a justice of the peace made affidavit of what had occurred. This, together with a statement of facts connected with the incident, along with what remained of the bills were sent to the treasury department in Washington and in a few days new notes of the same denominations were issued and forwarded to Honesdale.

Hurt in Benefit Game.

During a game of football between the Hallstead, Susquehanna county, team and the Greene, N. Y., eleven, played Saturday afternoon, H. A. Keigwin, one of the Hallstead players, had his shoulder broken. By a peculiar coincidence the game was being played for the benefit of Glen Peck, who was so seriously injured during the game with Susquehanna a week or so ago.

Water Getting Scarce.

The water in the Susquehanna river is again approaching the extreme low water mark, and unless rain comes soon it will be lower than ever known. Springs and wells in the country are also drying up and the farmers are experiencing considerable difficulty in getting water for the stock.

Licenses to be Transferred.

Application has been made to court for the transfer of the license in the First ward of Towanda known as the Stegmaier Cold Storage from Q. A. Kline to the Stegmaier Brewing company. Mr. Kline, who has successfully managed the business for many years, will continue, there being no apparent change in the business.

Big Output.

The Connell Coal company mined and shipped 30,000 tons of coal last month from their Bernice mines. This with the output of the Murray, O'Boyle & Foyle, and Randall and Schaad breakers will probably bring the entire output from that section up to about 75,000.—Dushore Herald.

BLAZE IN FROST FACTORY MAKES THIRD FIRE ALARM

Towanda Fire Department Called Out Three Times Within Ten Days.

The old saying that one fire alarm is always followed by two more within ten days has again held good in Towanda, as the local fire department has been called out thrice within a few days. A slight blaze in Frosts' factory shortly after eight o'clock Thursday morning followed fires at the Third ward polling place, and at the home of F. B. Lyke, West of the Oak Hill cemetery.

Yesterday's fire is believed to have been caused by the dropping of sparks from a cigarette into a bundle of excellsior which is used in the packing of furniture. Smoke warned the employees of the factory, and while the alarm was being given, the fire hose with which the factory is equipped were brought into play and the blaze was quenched before much damage was done, a small quantity of excellsior being all that was burned.

The fire companies responded promptly, as usual, and had it been necessary could have flooded the big building. The companies were ready for action within three minutes after the alarm was turned in, but their services were not needed.

The Frost factory building, which is the largest in this section, is provided with fire hose, and the most modern extinguishers, and is as near danger proof as it is possible for a manufactory to be. This was very forcibly illustrated yesterday.

JUDGE FANNING SENDS MARY CRONK TO HOUSE OF REFUGE.

Sayre Girl Will Have Plenty of Time to Repent.

Mary Cronk, aged 15 years, and Ethel Sumner, giving her age as 18, were before Judge Fanning in juvenile court Friday. They had been arrested in Sayre on the charge of keeping a disorderly house, and owing to their tender age, they were arraigned in juvenile court, after their case had been reviewed by Justice Nelson, who issued the warrants in the case.

The Cronk girl, who is a native of Towanda, was sentenced to the House of Refuge at Philadelphia, and there she will have plenty of time to repent and endeavor to mend her ways. The Sumner girl was committed to jail in default of bail and the grand jury will hear her case.

George Bram who was arrested in the house with the two girls, has been released on $200 bail, and William Flickinger, another man who fell into the drag net of the Sayre officers was held in $100 bail. The two men are charged with serious offenses, which if proven against them, will mean much.

The case is one of the worst and most shameful ever to come before the courts of Bradford county.

NARROW ESCAPE.

James Kilborn Has Close Shave Near Cedar Ledge, This County.

As Northern Central train 54 was approaching Cedar Ledge Wednesday night shortly after 12 o'clock, the engineer noticed a horse and wagon crossing the track in the path of the locomotive. Applying the air brakes the train was brought to a stop.

James Kilborn of Union township, was found in the ditch by the roadside where he had been thrown when the horse leaped to avoid the locomotive. The train crew picked up Mr. Kilborn and carried him to the home of J. H. Brown, near there, where it was found that he was uninjured save slight bruises received in falling from the wagon. The horse was found afterwards at the Kilborn home.

Eureka Mill Changes Hands.

An important business change took place in Monroeton the first of the week, in which the firm of C. P. Matthews & Son, well known millers and grain merchants of Scranton, have taken over the business of the Eureka Milling Co., and made a lease for the use of the property for a term of years. The new firm have large mills in various towns in New York and Pennsylvania and intend to increase the business of the Monroeton mill to its fullest capacity. D. O. Freeman came up from Scranton Monday to help take the inventory. The mill is already stocked to overflowing and the indications are that a new store house will soon be erected. Mr. Leet, who has been associated in business with Mr. Hill for a number of years, will remain with the new firm as general manager. —Monroeton Enterprise.

Oleo and Butter.

Says the Troy Gazette Register: "One marked effect of the increasing sales of oleomargarine, has been to practically kill the market for everything but the higher grade of butter. The consumers of low or medium grade butter are turning in increasing numbers to oleo and what the consumers will not buy the dealers can not handle. A secondary result is likely to be to force into the creameries many who now make their butter at home, unless they shall by extra efforts, bring up their product to present market requirements."

Killed a Fox.

Last Wednesday Wayne Rogers, J. J. Wood and G. W. Ford went out for squirrels, birds and rabbits and during the day succeeded in bagging a nice string. They had been out but a short time when the rabbit dog of Delbert Ford started a fox and the sly fellow came within a short distance of Mr. Rogers, who tried his luck with No. 6 shot. Imagine his surprise when the smoke cleared away to find that he had killed the animal at a distance of six rods.—LeRaysville Times.

TOWANDA MAY BE REGULAR TROLLEY LINE CENTER.

Work Not Started on Athens Line When Another Road Looms Up.

It is certainly astonishing how many things are coming this way. The other day The Review had the temerity to opine that the prospects were bright for the extending of the Athens torlley line to Towanda, and was about to set a date on which to commence work when another road looms up to trouble the dreams of the dreamers.

It certainly begins to look as if this far famed City of Promise was going to be a great trolley centre. The line to Athens is almost a sure thing, as is a line to the East Towanda fair grounds and another to the Top of Table Rock mountain where a big Summer hotel is to be located and it looks as if there was also going to be electrical connection with the West.

The very latest trolley talk is from Elmira where a party of prominent business men and capitalists is being quietly formed for an automobile trip of inspection of the proposed line from Wellsburg to Smithfield, thence to Burlington and up the Sugar Creek valley to Troy. There has been no public talk of extending the line to Mansfield, but that doubtless will come as will connection with Towanda more directly than through Sayre and Athens.

Another trolley story of local interest is the following from Wellsboro under date of Nov. 17: "At the Wellsboro Electric Light office on Monday, the directors of the Tioga Traction Company held a meeting. The committee on Right of Way reported that they had completed their work and secured the right of way with three unimportant exceptions the entire distance from Wellsboro to Mansfield. The reports received at this meeting were of such an encouraging nature that it was decided to place the stock on the market at once, many volunteer requests for stock having been already received. Statistics in the hands of the officers show upwards of 20,000,000 pounds of freight were received and shipped by farmers along the proposed route, last year. Everything at present indicates that the county seat will, within a year, be connected by trolley with towns on the Tioga river."

Forty Bears in a Month.

The Coudersport Enterprise reports the killing of 40 bears in Potter county since the opening of the season, a number almost equalling the total number killed in that county during all of last year. One of this year's bear hunters, The Enterprise further reports, has already killed six, though it is not said whether their killing was effected by the agency of a trap or not. When it is considered that 40 bears have been illed in a single county the first month of the open season, one wonders no longer at the statement made to a Williamsport paper the other day by a gentleman who decries the use of the teel trap, that if the slaughter of bears is kept up at the rate it is now going, it will be but a few years until the number will be so decimated that the matter of hunting them with guns—which now affords such rich sport—will no longer have any interest.

Improvement On The Lehigh.

In keeping with its policy of providing the traveling public with the best transportation facilities obtainable at any time, the Lehigh Valley railroad has for some time past been equipping sleeping and parlor cars to be operated on that line with electric lights, which include berth lights in the sleeping cars, and with dental lavatories and other modern conveniences. Some of these cars are now in operation and as fast as others can be equipped they will be placed in service.

NEW SYSTEM FOR 'PHONE CALLING.

Bell Operators Now Insist You Want Party So and So.

"Hello; Hello, Central! I want 440B! Give them to me quick! I'm in a hurry!" This is what you might say to one of the little Miss Up-to-dates on the Bell line any day this week.

After you had finished the land word of your little speech she would tantalizingly say: "No, that isn't whom you want. You want 4-4-0-Party B. That's the way we say it now, you know."

All this might make you very angry at "Central" and you would demand immediate telephonic audience with the "Chief."

You would explain to the "Chief" that you had called a number and that the young woman at "Central" had seen fit to interfere by saying "You mean Party B."

Then the chief operator might tell you, with as much consideration of your feelings as possible that the young woman at "Central" was trying to inform you of the up-to-date way to call for a telephone number.

Hereafter when you say you want some number with a letter attached, Central will continue to call "Number? Number?" until you change your methods and say "Give me 25-party B please."

So much confusion always has resulted from calling the letter directly after the number that the Metropolitan method of calling the number and giving the party line afterward, has been adopted.

A REAL GENIUS.

Inmate of the County House at Burlington Whittles Out Fiddles.

The old saying, that necessity is the mother of invention and likewise responsible for much clever handicraft, has seldom been more strikingly exemplified in this locality than by Thomas White of the County Home, in West Burlington, who with his jack knife has completed a number of really good violins, one of which he lately presented to Dr. G. E. Boyer, physician to the Home, says the Troy Gazette Register.

Every last part, the pegs, sounding board, bridge, etc., White makes with his knife from wood picked up here and there about the premises. While all differ and some are better than others in tone, they put to shame those of regular make of corresponding grade.

White whittles out other interesting things with his jack knife. One of the desires of his heart is a small plane to use in his work and some few conveniences for finishing his products.

Glory be unto the peacemaker who keeps us from getting walloped.

But Slight Changes.

The new timetable on the S. & N. Y. which became effective Sunday, Nov. 21, makes but slight changes in the old schedule. The morning passenger train which left Washington street station at 6:28 will leave two minutes later, or at 6:30. The evening train leaving Washington street station will depart at 6 o'clock instead of at 5:58. The Sunday passenger train will leave Washington street station at 6:30 instead of 8 o'clock. The time of arrival of trains has not been changed.

SPOTLIGHT ON JUDGE CAMERON

Tioga County Jurist Acts on License Applications in Original Manner.

HOW HE STOPPED A FIGHT IN FRONT OF A HOTEL

Grabbed One of the Scrappers By the Collar and Hustled Him to a Place of Safety—Interesting Chapters From a Busy Judicial Life.

An interesting story of Judge David Cameron, of Tioga county, and how he has enforced the provisions of the Brooks high license law in that section of the state, is told by a Wellsboro correspondent of the Philadelphia North American. Judge Cameron has some original ideas in connectin with granting licenses and regulating affairs along that line and among the incidents related are the following:

A certain hotel was destroyed by fire. The former landlord contemplated buying a corner site on the main street and putting up a modern brick building. He was a model landlord and ran a splendid house. It never occurred to him that his license would not be transferred. Judge Cameron sent for the instigator of the new enterprise, which would have been an improvement to the town in many ways, and asked if what he heard was so. The landlord said it was. The court replied. "This hotel of yours would be directly across the street from the Methodist church. Do you suppose I would grant a license to a hotel directly across from a place of worship? If so, you are mistaken. If you undertake it there will be no license granted there in my day." The splendid new hotel was never built.

Some time ago a crowd of men congregated habitually in front of a hotel. The court sent for the proprietor and insisted that he break up the practice, as the crowds made it unpleasant for women passing. The crowd disappeared. Another time two out-of-town young men got their liquor at a certain hotel. They were being followed by another crowd, and there was trouble brewing. The court sent for the landlord, told him these men got their drinks from his bar and said he would hold him responsible for any damage or breach of the peace that occurred. There was none.

Court Makes an "Arrest."

At another time two men were getting ready for a fight on the steps of a hotel just as the judge, escorting a woman, passed by. Leading his companion to a place of safety, Judge Cameron went back to one of the men, the larger of the two, took him by the collar, yanked him off the steps and said: "Put on your coat and come with me." Now the judge is a small man physically, but there is no man in these parts who has more courage. The jerked fighter looked at the judge somewhat contemptuously and roared out, "Who in blazes are you?" "I am the court," said Judge Cameron, "and if you don't dress yourself and come with me I will let you see how it feels to be on the inside of the county jail looking out." Without another word the man put on his coat and went along.

Walking down the street the judge asked the man's name and business. He proved to be foreman on a large lumber job near Wellsboro. Pointing to a hotel the judge told him, to go in, get a strong cup of coffee and then go to bed and when he woke up to take the first train out of town. "By the way," said the court, as the man started to do his bidding, "after you sober up and think this matter over, if you feel you have not been fairly treated, come up to my office in the court house and we will talk it over. How are you able to direct men for your employer when you have no better control over yourself?" The man did as directed, and the judge never saw him again, although the fellow sent word to him that he was much more considerately treated than he deserved, and it wouldn't be necessary for the judge to command the peace as far as the lumber man was concerned.

In a certain town one hotel always had license under former management. It fell into new and irresponsible hands. It was said to have become a place where the meals were unfit and unwholesome and the bedbug flourished like a gree bay tree. Judge Cameron sent for those financially interested in the hotel, laid the matter before them and announced that no license would be granted that applicant. One interested protested. "Would you eat a meal there?" the court asked. The man said he wouldn't "Would you dare go to bed there?" The interested one wouldn't. "Then under those circumstances I shall grant no license. To an applicant with the necessary qualifications I will grant one. See that such a one presents himself at the proper time if you desire license." It was done. The town has but one licensed hotel, and that for a good one.

Tioga county has a population of approximately 50,000. There are thirty-eight licensed places in which malt, spirituous and vinous liquors can be legally sold, thirty-four retail and four wholesale. There are no saloons, and a license of that character does not exist in the county. The courts have steadfastly refused to grant them . It is now, and has always been, the policy of Tioga judges to keep the number of licenses down, and when a license is once refused, if not a matter of the character of the applicant, seldom, if ever, is it resurrected. The sale of whisky is mainly in the hands of hotel keepers of the county. They are men of property, stability, who stand pledged to obey the law, and at the slightest infraction a license is revoked, and it is all over for that applicant. The revocation falls just as surely as the fact of violation is established.

SAYS TOBACCO DUST WILL SAVE PLANTS.

State Zoologist Surfact Tells How Pests May Be Exterminated.

A Montgomery county woman, whose house plants were badly damaged, and some of them killed by insects, such as a palm and heliotrope, wrote to State Zoologist Surface for information and also sent to him specimens of the pests that had caused the destruction. As other women may have plants similarly attacked, they will be interested in the answer given, which was as follows:

"This proves to be the larvae of a little fly, such as you describe as seeing on the ground around the plants. These are found to belong to the entomological genus Sciara, and feed on the vegetation in the soil, as well as upon the roots, especially wherein decay has started. Thus they promote decay, and may do considerable injury, as you have observed.

"The best way to prevent this trouble is to sprinkle tobacco dust abundantly over the surface of the soil around the plants. The flies will not remain long in a place so treated, and will no longer deposit eggs there. Any larvae that may remain in the soil unkilled will undergo regular development, and after they emerge there will be no more infestation of your soil. You can, of course, make a decoction of tobacco and water and soak the soil with it and thus destroy the larvae themselves at once, but the tobacco dust will keep the flies from laying their eggs."

New Subscription Scheme.

Says F. L. Taylor, the new editor of the Laporte News Item: "The other day Sheriff Brown took a Wheelerville man in charge on suspicion that he wasn't a subscriber to the News Item. The charge was sustained, and the prisoner fined one year's subscription. He paid his fine promptly and cheerfully, and the Sheriff came to our office Thursday morning, paid over the money and also cashed up for two years for himself. Any printer who wouldn't enjoy being sold out or hung by a sheriff like that is lacking in gratitude."

Peddled Without a License.

Not having a license to peddle from house to house, as it required by law, John Dep was arrested at Lopez, and by 'Squire Lawrence Dunn was sent to the Sullivan county jail at Laporte to await the action of the grand jury for the December term of court. Dep has been underselling all merchants who became very angry, and when an investigation was made it was learned he had not secured a license and was therefore violating an act of assembly of 1901 which regulates such cases.

Unique Display.

Dr. Arnot of State street, has an unique display in the north window of the Kilmer & Mingos grocery store. In the collection of curios is a saw taken from one of the vicious saw fishes which inhabit the Florida waters; a pair of horns from the great American Bovaporous killed on the plains of Texas; a coyote wolf skin from Nevada, and a royal palm from Cuba. A cane over 150 years old is also exhibited.

Killed in Runaway.

Frightened by an automobile, a team driven by Samuel Skinner of Oregon township ran away Thursday night a few miles from Honesdale. The wagon was overturned and Mr. Skinner thrown out. His skull was fractured and death ensued immediately. Mr. Skinner was engaged in moving to Scranton, where he had leased a house. His wife had preceded him to the city.

Argument Court.

Argument court commenced Monday and among the appeals for new trials are J. R. Coolbaugh versus the Lehigh and Frank B. Lyke versus the Lehigh. Another case to be argued is the application of Harriet Sands for council fees and alimony pending the decision of the court whether or not to grant her husband, John A. Sands of Sayre a divorce.

HOSPITAL COMMITTEE HOME FROM INSPECTION TRIP.

Visited Wilkes-Barre, Scranton, Hazleton and Bethlehem Hospitals.

Hon. J. K. Newell and Rodney A. Mercur, Esq., of Towanda, M. H. Sawtelle and Bert Hayden of Sayre, and Dr. J. W. Chamberlain of Wyalusing, who were selected by the Board of Trustees of the Robert Packer hospital to visit a number of hospitals for the purpose of seeing how they are conducted, have returned from their inspection tour.

During the trip, the committee inspected the State and the Moses Taylor hospitals at Scranton; the State and Mercy hospitals of Wilkes-Barre; the State hospital at Hazleton, and the St. Luke's hospital at Bethlehem

The object of this committee in visiting these hospitals was to learn what they could about the management of the same and report to the trustees of the Packer hospital at their next meeting, when some action as to management of this institution and also to secure a surgeon in chief will be taken.

Of Local Interest.

The Register, published at Fort Plain, N. Y., has this to say concerning people well known in Towanda: "Mrs. W. Hamilton Jarvis of Cooperstown, who owns a half interest in the Acme theatre, is spending the week in this village and she may possibly make Fort Plain her future place of residence. She was accompanied here by her brother-in-law, Dr. Bowne Jarvis, of Washington, D. C." "Dr. Bowne Jarvis of Washington, D. C., and Mrs W. Hamilton Jarvis of Cooperstown, Dr. J. C. Jackson and John J. Galvin made a trip Monday afternoon to Cooperstown in Dr. Jackson's E. M. F. 30 Dr. Jarvis and Dr. Jackson were class mates in college and this was their first meeting in years. Cooperstown is the native place of Dr. Jarvis and he will spend some time visiting relatives and acquaintances in that village and vicinity. The return trip with three in the machine by way of the east side of Otsego lake and over roads the like of which one would not expect to find in the public domain labelled the Empire State, was made in a trifle under one hour."

Fender For Autos.

Clarence Bronson, a glass cutter living in Corning was last week awarded a patent on an automobile and street car fender which has been declared by experts who have examined it to fill a long felt want. The fender consists of a steel rack which folds into a compact space which is propelled by springs so that when the car strikes an object a trigger is released shooting out springs and opening the fender to catch the victim. Mr. Bronson has been working on the patent for the past two years and has associated with him as financial partner, Bert Griswold, of this city. The device will be exhibited at the automobile show in New York city in January and it is proposed to sell the right to manufacture on royalty so that no one car will have a monopoly of the feature.

A Longing For Congress.

Hon. R. S. Edminston left Wednesday morning for Nebraska. While he intends stopping at Lincoln to visit his brother, who resides at that place, the main object of his trip is to look after a tract of land that he purchased in 1885 which has recently become important and it is altogether probable that he will receive a big price for it if he concludes to sell. While he intends to be absent a number of weeks he informed us that he will land in the district in time to look after the congressional nomination and he probably will.—Athens Gazette.

Arrested For Obeying Law.

A news dispatch from Wilkes-Barre says: "For obeying the orders of the state department Thomas Walsh of Fort Blanchard, was placed on trial charged with larceny. Last May thirteen people were drowned in the Susquehanna river, near here, Walsh recovered one of the bodies on which he found $120. He was notified by the state department not to surrender the money until its ownership was legally determined. Peter Laguta, the administrator of the dead man's estate, then commenced suit against Walsh for larceny."

Insurance Case Decided.

In the case of Ida M. Prevost vs. Maryland Casualty Co., an action to recover on a life insurance policy for $5,000 on the life of the late Henry C. Prevost, a former register and recorder of Wyoming county in United States Court at Scranton, a verdict was directed to be taken for the defendant company by Judge Archbald on account of representations made by deceased at time of obtaining the insurance on his life.

Reporter-Journal, three months 25c.

RECEIPTS OF TREASURY WILL EXCEED PREVIOUS YEARS.

Figures of Auditor General's Office Show Up Very Well.

Figures complied at the close of business at the auditor-general's department Saturday show the receipts of the state of Pennsylvania for the fiscal years, which will end on the last day of this month, will reach the unprecedented total of $29,500,000, with a possibility of going beyond that limit.

The receipts at the close of the week's business amounted to $28,730,462.92, which is $3,573,017.25 ahead of the same day in 1908, and $1,703,330.20 ahead of the same day in 1907, which was a record-breaking year.

The expenditures of the state, however, have been unusually heavy, amounting to $29,434,192.97 at the close of last week's business. The state has a balance on the first of the month of more than $8,000,000, which has not been seriously affected.

DEADLY TORPEDO.

Hornell Boy Terribly Injured When He Explodes One.

Thomas Loug, Jr., the nine years old son of Thomas Long of Hornell, N. Y., was seriously injured at noon Sunday by the explosion of a railroad torpedo which he had found, and with which he was playing. His breastbone was crushed, his arms badly lacerated, and his chin nearly blown off by the force of the explosion.

The lad found a torpedo somewhere, and brought it in front of his home. He wished to find what was inside the bright tin box, which was fitted with so tight a cover. The lad placed the torpedo on a store, and with another stone hit it on the top. There was a terrific explosion and the lad was hurled backwards to the ground, crushed and bleeding. Medical aid was summoned and the injuries dressed. Many pieces of metal were taken from the arms and chest of the lad, but many more remain embedded in his flesh. It is feared that blood poisoning may result from the particles of metal.

Quarterly Meeting.

The quarterly meeting of the Young Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist church will be held as a Thanksgiving meeting this evening at the home of the Misses Young, corner Third and Bridge streets. The president, Miss Mary Gordon, who lately attended the convention of the Woman's Foreign Missionary society at Wilmington, Del., will read a report which has a special message in it for the young people. Every member is urged to be present at eight o'clock, that the meeting may commence at that hour, and all are asked to bring two extra pennies to be used for a purpose which will be announced at the meeting.

Three Thousand Hunting Permits

If there are any deer left in the woods of Pennsylvania at the close of the present hunting season it will not be because there are not enough hunters out to exterminate them. Forestry Commissionr Conklin announces that he has already given permits to three thousand persons to hunt on state reservations, and it is probable there are that many more hunters outside the state's land. Commissioner Conklin says the number of permits issued is the largest granted in any one year since the state reserves were established.

Turkey Talk.

The outlook is that turkeys will be high in price for Thanksgiving. They are scarce, according to general report, and those who have them to sell are planning to hold them until the holidays, when they believe the price will be higher. City prices are quoted at 24 and 25c. a pound in the markets to buyers.

Killed Two Coons.

While hunting near Black on Saturday Thomas Scott and "Hoddy" Horton, came upon two large coons which they had no trouble in bringing down with well aimed shots. The toothsome animals were cavorting about in a tree, a most unusual thing for them to do in the daytime, and thus met their death. Horton also bagged a large pheasant. One of the coons sold for $1.50.

Money For Charities.

In one of the most comprehensive wills ever offered for probate in the courts of Lycoming county, Mrs. Amanda E. Howard has devised her entity in the estate of her husband, the late William Howard, for charities and church work in Williamsport and for misisons and general clergy relief This entity is estimated at $75,000. WHAT THEY ARE DOING DOWN WYALUSING WAY.

Some Interesting Items From Last Week's Wyalusing Rocket.

The following interesting items from down Wyalusing way are taken from last week's Rocket:

Making Vending Machines.

On Saturday the placing of the machinery in the plant of the Consolidated Vending Machine works in this borough was completed, and on Monday the assembling of the machines was commenced.

The home of the company is a handsome one, the side walls being of concrete blocks, rock faced, and in fact the building is one of the handsomest and most substantial in town. The company held an adjourned meeting last week at which time Hon. E. D. Lewis of this borough, was elected president; W. J. McCabe of Towanda, treasurer, and E. E. Smith of Wyalusing, secretary of the company. The stock disposed of locally was placed upon an eight per cent guaranteed basis, and the company perfected its plans for a successful year. Robert Ferguson of Binghamton, was selected the manager of the company and he has at once begun the work of assembling the machines. The output at present will be about 25 machines per day, but as soon as local employes can be "broken in" it is expected that this output will be increased to at least 100 machines each day. Inquiries for territory and for machines are being received daily by the company, but to some extent the territory is being held until the machines can be manufactured fast enough to supply the demand.

Poor Man's Morris Chair.

Welles & Davis have perfected and have patented a chair that will give the poor man as many hours of ease and comfort after his day's work is done as is enjoyed by his more fortunate brother who has plenty of this world's goods. The easy piece of furniture is called "The Poor Man's Morris Chair" and from the sample that the representative of this paper occupied for a short time, we believe it fills the bill to a capital "T." It is made of oak and is so arranged that it is either an upright chair, or at the user's wish becomes a reclining piece of furniture in which one can stretch his "weary bones" and enjoy a most luxurious nap. The finest ones retail at $4.50, while the cheaper variety sells at about a couple of dollars. The scheme was invented by F. N. Davis, and it is certainly a dandy scheme.

Prosperous and Contented.

Among the farmers who are enjoying the "good things" of this life, Mr. E. V. Hunt of Lime Hill, comes in for honorable mention even if he does not head the list of the men who are getting solid enjoyment out of the work of life. He had been bothered for water during the dry spells of past years, like all his neighbors, so the past Summer he has put in a wind-mill and now pumps water to a reservoir and from there it runs all about his home, giving him hot and cold water throughout the house. Besides this, he has placed a convenience on the road in front of his home that is appreciated by all passers-by—a fine concrete watering trough. Since 1885 there has been no place where teams could be watered on this road from Wyalusing to Standing Stone, previous to that time there was a trough at the L. C. Overton place on Vaughan Hill, but since that one went out of commission the thirsty animal had to suffer till the livery stable was reached. Is there any wonder that the farmer is the contented and prosperous man of the day, when he not only has all the comforts of life, but is as well looking after the enjoyment of his neighbors?

They are Punching Some.

For the past few weeks the business of the Finney Striking Bag company has been booming, hardly a morning passing but that a shipment of upwards a half dozen is made, and on one occasion 104 were shipped to customers who intend to strengthen their muscles and build up their health through the aid of this manual training device. Large numbers of the exercisers are being shipped to John Wanamaker, the great New York department store man, and the local company is building up a fine business in the bags all over the country.

Journalistic Feat.

For the first time in its history, the Rocket is compelled to acknowledge that a contemporary has secured for its columns a great journalistic "beat", and that, too, right in the Rocket's own territory.

The new periodical for popular favor is the No-Flighty Butter Fludget, the official mouthpiece of the Fortnightly Club of this borough. Its editors are Mrs. C. W. Newman, Mrs. J. B. Lewis, Mrs. J. H. Howard and Mrs. A. S. Hibbard, the first, last or one of the others being the editor-in-chief. The paper has a limited circulation, the first issue being launched at the meeting of the club last Friday afternoon. So many of the articles were along the sensational lines that it might almost be called one of those "yellow journals," but its leading article, and one that is so appropriate these days when the decennial census is about to take place, was the increase of population that this borough is having. All our people as well as the Rocket know that Wyalusing is always on the boom, but to confirm the many startling reports in the Flutter-Budget, the Rocket's reporters interiewed the proud parents spoken of and found that the items dealt more in shouldbe's than always in facts, but be that as it may, the paper was a hummer and was one of the sensations of the Club's history. Disastrous fires, marriages, an excellent short novel, etc., also came in for "scare-heads."

Its advertising columns were so filled with testimonials of food for the fat and the thin, that we are sure that the financial end is well cared for and that the Butter Fludget will continue to be one of the features of the Friday meetings of the Fortnightly Club.

NEW POSTAL CARD DESIGN.

Will Be the Best the Government Has Yet Issued.

Designs for the new postal cards to be issued by the Government have been approved by Postmaster General Hitchcock. The cards will be furnished to the Post Office Department by the Government Printing Office, in accordance with a contract effective on January 1, 1910.

On the ordinary card, the head of the late President McKinley will appear, as now, but a much better likeness has been selected. On the new small card, intended for index purposes and for social correspondence, a likeness of President Lincoln will appear. The two cent international card will bear a portrait of General Grant.

A novel and pleasing innovation has been made for the double, or reply, postal card. On the first half will appear a portrait of George Washington, while the stamp on the second or reply, half will be a likeness of Martha Washington.

The borders of the stamps on all of the cards will be diversified of design. On all of the cards the words "Postal Card" required by the universal postal union convention, will appear on the borders of the stamp and not, as now, as a separate inscription.

The paper to be used is the best for the purpose yet manufactured. It will be more attractive than the paper used in the present cards and will "take ink" better than the paper now employed.

Close Call For Horse.

C. J. Sullivan, the draytman, came near losing one of his horses Monday afternoon. The animal broke through an iron grating in the concrete roadway between the Evans and Kaufman stores, and had it not been for prompt assistance, would have broken a leg. Several men went to the rescue, and while some of them held the horse down, others broke a larger hole in the grating, and the horse was pulled from the dangerous position. The incident created considerable excitement.

WAVERLY SILK MILL PROJECT IS TREMBLING.

Site is too Small, and Addition to Subscription May be Necessary.

A correspondent writing from Waverly says: "What has become of the Waverly silk mill project?

"This is the question which many Waverly people are asking and which has not been fully gnawered as yet. It is rumored that the Smiths who owned the Patterson factory which was to have been moved to Waverly have sold out to the syndicate which includes the Towanda Silk mill which cost $40,000.

"It is said that the new company is not satisfied with the site picked out for the proposed Waverly mill on Broad street. A large plot of ground is wanted and a large mill is now being planned.

"In a very few days $10,000 was subscribed for mortgage bonds for the new enterprise. It is claimed that the present idea is to increase this amount and Waverly capitalists will again have a chance to invest their money."

Mail Carrier Potter Kills Rabbit.

The rural mail carriers running out of Towanda have more than their share of excitement while covering their routes. A short time ago Carrier Allis while down Durell way was held up by a bear and greatly delayed. He told of his harrowing experience in the Towanda postoffice, and since then the other carriers have been going armed. Charles Potter, No. 2, who makes the route over Towanda hill to Mountain Lake and return carries a small rifle with which to drive away too inquisitive bears, and Friday while passing over his route spied a big brown rabbit directly ahead in the road. Without stopping the horse, Mr. Potter took his rifle and while on the move, toppled the cottontail over. He bagged his game without even stopping the horse, and will have a rabbit dinner this evening.

After Potato Records.

Subscribers to this paper living in the state of Washington, have become interested in the potato yields in this county which have been mentioned in these columns from time to time. This is a little better than the best record in Bradford county this season.

COURT ORDERS TRUSTEES TO GIVE DEED TO BISHOP.

Title of North Scranton Church Must Be Vested in Bishop Hoban.

By an opinion handed down in the suit involving the title of the property of the St. Lithuanian church of North Scranton, Judge E. C. Newcomb has decided that the title should be vested in Bishop M. J. Hoban, as trustee. He directs the ten trustees chosen by the dissenting faction to make a deed for the property accordingly.

The case has been in court for several years. In August last Judge Newcomb to expedite matters, presided at an election of a trustee for the property, in which all members in good standing in the congregation had a vote. The election resulted in the majority of the members voting for Bishop Hoban for trustee.

In disposing of the case, Judge Newcomb, says: "A majority of the undisputed votes having been cast in favor of Bishop Hoban that is decisive of the issue agreed upon." Judge Newcomb also decides that in excommunicating the dissenting faction from membership in the church, Bishop Hoban exercises a proper right as head of the church in a matter involving discipline.

Lehigh Valley Will Take Precautions Against Car Thieves.

Six cars of copper will soon be moved over the Lehigh from Buffalo to Jersey City and they will be so well guarded by detectives that the efforts of thieves will be useless. A short time ago copper to the value of between $700 and $800 was stolen from a car which was in transit. This impelled the Lehigh to take such action as will in the future insure the safety of copper that it is carrying. Orders have been issued that a detective is to be placed in charge of all cars containing copper. The men will not even be able to leave the cars to obtain food and when trains are in movement the detectives must ride on the top of them. They cannot even ride in the cupolo of cabooses, in spite of the fact that from cupolas they could watch the cars. The six cars left Chicago on Nov. 15 and as soon as they are received by the Lehigh they will be placed in charge of detectives attached to the Buffalo office of the Buffalo division. Those detectives will be in charge until Manchester is reached and then Sayre detectives will assume charge. Arriving here Wilkes-Barre detectives will assume charge for the trip over the Wyoming division. The detectives are already shivering at the mere thought of the cold trip they must take.—Sayre Times-Record.

FARM WHICH COST $2,500 NOW ON MARKET FOR $1,500.

Coincidence Which Shows How Land Has Decreased in Value.

By a strange coincidence the decrease of the value of farming land in Bradford county during the past 28 years is forcibly illustrated. In 1881 a man now living in Towanda purchased half a hundred acres of bare farm land, paying $2,500. Thinking he had secured a great bargain, he erected substantial buildings, and then valued his property at $3,500, allowing $1,000 for the improvements. A short time later, a prospective purchaser came and viewed the place, and offered $3,000 but the owner insisted upon $3,500 and the deal fell through.

This week the farm was advertised for sale in The Review and one of the many answers to the ad was from the very man who 28 years ago offered $3,000 for the place. To show how the value of land has decreased in that length of time, the man who once offered $3,000 for the farm, has now been offered the very place, buildings and all, for $1,500, or just half the sum he offered over a quarter of a century ago. If he buys, he will have saved $1,500 by waiting 28 years.

Has New Position.

Prof. Walter Haight, well known in Bradford county, recently resigned the principalship of the Little Marsh school to accept a more lucrative position at Johnstown, Pa. His successor at Little Marsh is Harry Palmer of Keeneyville.

Auto Wagon Burned.

While Sheriff Hatfield and Prothonotary Catlin of Tioga county, were returning from a hunting trip in Charleston, their auto buggy, owned by the former, took fire and burned in the road. It cost $800 and was insured for $500.

Sixty Votes Won Job.

Attorney General Todd has given an opinion to Secretary of the Commonwealth McAfee to the affect that he should commission John Secor as coroner of Tioga county. It appeared that a vacancy had existed in the office since the first Monday of January, 1908 when the term of the last commissioned coroner expired. Secor was the only candidate and received 60 votes.

And the Dog Came Back.

A fortnight ago, E. C. Nichols of Troy, bought at LeRoy and shipped to Bath, N. Y., a rabbit dog. It had never before been in that section. Some few days after arrival it was turned loose and on Friday noon disappeared. Dilligent search and inquiry failed to locate it. Finally the new owner telephoned Mr. Nichols. He had seen nor heard nothing of it, but to lend all possible aid telephoned the former owner in LeRoy. Yes the dog was there. Showed up from no one know where on Sunday, gaunt from hunger but none the worse for his homeward journey of 70 miles, Mr. Nichols drove to LeRoy Saturday and reshipped the dog to Bath Saturday evening.

Sayre Men Interested.

He retains his stock in the Galeton bank and membership in the directorate.

Nice Bag of Game.

John Campbell and Edward F. Peterman of Towanda, and Harry Campbell of Burlington, while hunting in the vicinity of Burlington on Saturday, bagged 11 rabbits, four squirrels and one pheasant. Birds were plentiful, but hard to get. Walter Andrews of Burlington, killed three rabbits.

Nice Lot of Game.

One of the largest and nicest assortments of game seen in Towanda this season was exhibited Monday by Dr. Charles S. Means. Where when and how the doctor came into possession of the collection will not be known until a complete investigation has been made.

Wreck at Meshoppen.

There was a bad wreck at Meshoppen on Sunday night. Three Lehigh cars were tossed helter-skelter so that both the East and the West bound tracks were blocked. All night trains were greatly delayed.

HIS OWN MEDICINE.

The Dose That Was Handed to the Persistent Agent.

He was a sewing machine agent of the most aggressive type. For twenty minutes the lady of the house had been awaiting an opportunity to say that she already possessed one.

At last he paused, only long enough, however, to thrust a card into the lady's hand.

The bit of pasteboard was certainly a novelty.

"My name is Sellem," it read, "of the firm of Blank & Co., sewing machine manufacturers, and I intend to prove to you that it is madness to defer purchasing one of our unequaled machines."

After a long description of the machine came the following:

"You may plead that you are unable to work a machine. I will remove that objection in fifteen minutes or in three lessons. Will call next Wednesday."

When the agent called again a six foot man opened the door and blandly remarked:

"You're the sewing machine man, I suppose?"

"Yes; I called last week, and"—

"Yes, I know," interrupted the big man. "You don't know me, I suppose. My name's Bury of Bury & Keepem, undertakers, and I intend to prove to you that it is madness to defer purchasing one of our unequaled coffins."

The agent began to edge away.

"You may plead that you are scarcely qualified for a coffin," the big man went on. "I will remove that objection in ten seconds."

But the agent simply tore from the
